Q & A: Readers' verdict on Trump charges

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

The question we posed to our digital subscribers last week was: Is the federal indictment of Donald Trump a good thing or a bad thing? Most — but not all — replies said it's a good thing he was indicted.

Brian Kearney of Fort Ann:

The question isn't whether it is a good thing or a bad thing. It's a question of upholding laws and protecting sensitive national secrets and information from the hands of those who could use it to damage the security of this country.

There are those who would have you believe that this is a partisan personal attack on a former president but the indisputable facts are that, for reasons only known to him, he disregarded multiple request to return sensitive government documents and then after court ordered search was approved, he had employees remove them and hid them in his own office, lying to his own lawyers about it.

All you need to know about his culpability are recorded in

Dave DeMarco is the new Chief Executive Officer of Arrow Financial Corp., parent company of Glens Falls National and Saratoga National Banks.

Arrow chief upbeat

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Arrow Financial — the parent of Glens Falls National and Saratoga National Banks — as of last week still hadn't filed its tardy financial reports for 2022 and this year's first quarter, but new CEO David DeMarco was only upbeat when The Chronicle interviewed him last Friday.

Is the bank in trouble?, we asked. "Absolutely not," Mr. DeMarco replied. "We are so strong." He cited "strong capital, strong liquidity, strong history of a great company."

"I've been with the company for 35 years, the company itself
